INDEX

THE UNPOPULAR REVIEW

VOL. III

[Titles of Articles are printed in heavier type. The names of authors of articles are printed in italics]

Academe and Mayfair, 102—social status of American college professors in different colleges, 102–103—analysis of a college professor's social relations in a medium-sized city, 103–117—"Society," 104–105—fashionable element and the element that looks down on "professors," 105–106—some professors welcome in society and others not, 107—a lingua franca, 107–108—breeding and perceptivity, 108—the professor's wife, 108–109—if acceptable, how large a rôle? 109–111—comfort and not elegance, 110–111—professor's comparative poverty, 112—the academic circle, 113—comradeship, 114—value of time, 115—far-reaching social affiliations, 115–116—local judgments, 116—personal pleasures largely mental, 116—being a scholar and a gentleman, 117.
Adventure, 388.
Advertising, 348.
Agassiz, Louis, 184.
Alcohol, 356.
Applause, Standardized, 216.
Army, U. S., 223.
Austria, 197.

B., Madame, 189, 192.
Bax, E. B., 129.
Bebel, 130.
Belgium, 284, 290.
Bernhardi, F. von, 5, 37, 196.
Bismarck, 38.
Books for children, 440.
Brazil, 26.
Brookes, Captain, 216.
Bruce, H. Addington, 195.
Bruce, H. Addington, 'Our Debt to Psychical Research,' 176.
Bryan, Wm. J., 226.
Bryce, Lord, quoted, 215.
Buck, Philo M., Jr., 'Some Recent Philosophy of Literature,' 312.
Bugbears, 440.

C., Mr., 177.
Candy, Whisky, Science, Philosophy, 434.
Carrington, Hereward, 195.
Catt, Carrie Chapman, 128.
Chamberlain, H. S., 199.
Cheering, standardizing, 216.
Chicago Evening Post quoted, 212.
Childhood, 178.
Children's books, 440.
China, 26, 279.
Choate, Jos. H., 6, 7.
Christian Science, 215.
Civil War, 160.
Civilization, 164.
Cobb, Perry Rush, 'What is the Chance for a Job?' 134.
College education, 76.
College professors and society, 102.
Colonial domain, 17.
Colonies as markets, 285.
Colorado, equal suffrage, 126.
Colorado strike, 253.
Colton, Arthur W., 'What is Progressive?' 159.
Competition, The Conservation of, 269—structure of industry; Socialist plea for public ownership, 269–271—need of increasing industrial efficiency to create wealth, 271–273—effectiveness of competition; lifting the struggle, 273–274—public business; the "spoils system," 274–275—our failure to understand economy, 275—lack of incentive to improve public business, 276—security enjoyed by the State, 276–277—the one exception to security and unprogressiveness in public business—viz., war, 277–278—Prussia, France, Great Britain, China, 278–279—the case against government monopolies, 279–280—possible transformation of competition, 280.

Competition, The Culmination of, 281—competition the law of life; good and bad competition, 281–282—Germany as an illustration of the culmination of competition, 283—loss of moral sense; use of strikes, 284—wasteful competition; colonies; food supply, 285–286—envy of England on the part of Germany and England's calmness, 286–287—two things higher than the State, 288—the moral law fundamental, 288–290—Nietzsche, Treitschke, Dernberg, 290—coöperation better than competition? 291—Charles Scribner, 291—improved character of competition, 292—coöperation and competition side by side, 293—standards of fitness; Buddha and Christ, 294—philosophy in control; waste in advocating competition, 295—stories of the trench fighters, 296—combination of nations, 297.
Conservatism, 165.
Constitutions, amending, 174.
Cooper, J. Fenimore, 389, 390.
Coöperation, 292.
Cracow, 246.
Cramb, Prof., 6–7, 13.
Criminal, The New View of, 328—the indeterminate sentence, 328–330—three reasons for it, 330—parole and after care, 331–332—Minnesota methods, 332–340—Board of Parole and its rules, 332—basis of case study, 333—parole agents, 334—the man on parole, 335—the discharge, 336—Prisoners' Aid Society and agencies, 337–338—possible error on the side of leniency; knowledge of paroled prisoners, 338—relation of pardons and paroles, 339—progress; need of right social atmosphere, 340.
Criminality, 180.
Criticism, More Sentimental, 426.
Criticisms Answered, Some, 211.
Cromwell, 162.
Cult of St. Vitus, The, 88—restlessness of the age, 88–89—delight of dancing and watching dancers, 89–90—proper hours for dining and dancing, 91–92—the Apache, 92—Pavlowa, 93—display of the human figure in professional and in private life, 93–95—tendencies and prospects, 95–96—two sides to it all, 96–97—the passing of conventions, 97—embracing customs, 97–98—folk dancing, 98—the waltz, 99—objections, 100—summary, 100–101.
Culture, 60.

Dancing, 88.
D'Annunzio, Gabriele, 36.
Danzig, 242.
Darwinism, ethnic, 196.
Dates, writing, 439.
Debutantes, The Mobilization of the, 298—uniforms, 298—clothes for the family, 299—the Social Register; flowers; the tea; music, 300—the boys; the buds; first names, 301—first balls; disillusionment; getting thin; calisthenics, 302—the society column and society, 303—the more serious side of the subject, 304—the Junior League and its activities, 305—dances; charity; Leagues in other cities, 305–307—"Work for the Volunteer," 307—annual reports, citations from, 307–310—Miss Miner; committee, etc., 308–309—lectures; ostensible and real summit of our civilization, 310–311.
Defence, The National, 223—unfair treatment of the cause; the "good example" argument, 223–226—President Wilson's attitude; Bryan's million men and Kitchener's million, 226–227—kind of risk we need to provide against, 227–228—our provision against a raid, 228–229—size of force we need, 230—our army reserve, 231–232—the trouble with our National Guard, 232–233—mounted constabularies, 233—how to provide an army reserve, 233–235—the Swiss system, 235–237—value of preparedness and lessons of the present war, 237.
Democracy, 170, 429.
Dernberg, Dr., 290.
Diaz, Porfirio, 379.
Divorce Laws, Our Chaotic, 61—Col. Strephon Beauregard's marriage entanglements due to the various and peculiar provisions of the marriage and divorce laws of different States of the Union, especially Mississippi, Maryland, Virginia, Kansas, New York, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island.
Dniester River, 238.

Dogmatism, scientific, 408.
Dorr, Rheta Childe, 120, 121.
Dramatic Mob, Parables of the, 43—Elizabethan contempt of the populace, 43–44—classical and scriptural authority, 44–46—contemporary custom, 46–47—mob of the drama, 47—Shakspere's mob in the Jack Cade scenes, 48–49—Brutus and Antony speeches in the play Julius Cæsar, 50–52—the mob in the play Coriolanus, 52–53—Gorky's sketch of a modern mob, 53–54—Victor Hugo's Cromwell, 54–55—Ibsen's An Enemy of the People, 55–57—these mobs as allegories of life about us, 57–58—the mob-mind of the modern public, 58–60—culture a resistance to the mob-mind, 60.
Drewry, W. F., 190.
Dutton, George B., 'System versus Slippers,' 367.

Educated Man, The Passing of the, 76—how the college is faring at the hands of educators; expansion; confusion; pressure, 76–77—introduction of practical aims, natural and social sciences, and the electric system, 77–79—modern education's lack of vision, 79–80—material and ideal life, 80—the "call of the job," 80—commercialism and industrialism in the college, 81—value of few and prescribed courses, 82–84—relegation of vocational courses to vocational schools, 84–85—true value of the college, 85–86—proper attitude toward fitting schools, 86—education for leisure, 87.
Education, 76, 429.
Education, The Nation's Adventures in, 149—not provided for in the constitution of the United States, 149—"extra-constitutional" education, 149–150—bureaus, 150—position of the Bureau of Education, 151—agricultural education, 151–152—vocational education, 152—national aid for one sort involves national aid for all sorts, 153–154—expansive force of subsidies, 154—task in the Southern States, 155—sectionalism, public lands; what might be done in the South, 155–156—vocational and elementary education, 156—adult illiteracy in the United States, 157—need of a sense of proportion, 157–158.
Efficiency, 272, 367.
"Eliot, George," 415, 424.
Elizabethan drama, 43.
En Casserole, 202, 426.
England, 197, 287.
Erewhonians, 2.
Ether, 405, 407, 408.
Ethnic Darwinism, 196—Teuton and Slav; superior and inferior races, 196—ethnical tableau of the war as set forth by some scholars, 197—dogma of dog eat dog, 198—how this scheme would work individually, 198—race struggle, 199—pure races and hybridized races, 199–200—validity of dogma of natural selection questioned; absurdity of its application to nations, 200–201.
Europe, The Eastern Moat of, 238—Vistula-Dniester river system, 238–239—cities along the moat, 240—Poland; Germanism and Slavism, 241—the Polish navy; Danzig, 242—Königsberg, 243—Graudenz and Thorn, 243–244—Warsaw and Cracow the head and the heart of Poland, 245–247—the Dniester, the San, and Przemysl, 247–248—Lemberg, 248–249—towns on the Dniester, Sambor, Chocim, Kamenietz, 249–251—Sobieski, 250—Kishinev, Akkerman, Odessa, 251–252.
Expansionist Fallacy, The, 17—inception and growth of expansion among the nations, 17—recent wars imputable to expansion idea, 18—the present war, 18–19—illusion of world power, 19–20—subject nations not assets but liabilities, 20–21—subsidizing colonies, 21—mood interest in expansion an international interest, 22–24—expansion an economic movement, 25—food supplies dependent on a world market, 26—need of international good will, 27—Japan in Manchuria, 28–29—general welfare of the smaller European states, 29–30—national and international gains, 31.

Fads in writing, 438.
Fairchild, H. P., 'Lies, Damned Lies, and Statistics,' 352.
"Fear Boys with Bugs," 440.
Feminism and Socialism, 118—woman's demand for the ballot because men have it, 118—legal disabilities removed by men, 118—prohibition and humanitarian legislation, 119—Feminism as explained by various women, 119–133—woman's efficiency in the home; citations from Mrs. Moody, Mrs. Dorr, and Prof. Scudder, 119–112—woman's real desire is for sex independence; Edna Kenton, "Lucas Malet," Helen L. Sumner and others quoted, 122–127—equalization of pay, 126—where Feminist and Socialist meet, 127—importance of this meeting in that both antagonize the family, 128—family and property, 129—fate of purity, 129—socialism and free love, 130—love and marriage, 131—happy marriages, 132—pleasure vs. duty and feeling vs. thought, 133.

Finck, Henry T., 132.
Flonzaleys, 431.
Fool and his Money, The, 341—thriftlessness a modern virtue, 341—the unemployed, 342—the art of selling and breakdown of frugality, 342–343—sketch of the old-time merchant, 343–344—modern selling technique; "prospects," 344—attention, interest, desire, pocketbook, 344–346—art of holding on to money nowhere taught, 346—specialists in selling, 347—invisible operators, 347–348—advertisements, 348–349—advantages of saving and laying up a reserve, 349–350—especially for industrial workers, 350–351—hand-to-mouth economy; the purse not trash, 351.
France, 197, 278.
Frederick the Great, 32.
Free love, 130.
French Revolution, 160.

Genius, 187.
Gentleman and scholar, 117.
Gentleman's magazine, 426.
"George Eliot." See "Eliot, George."
German hatred of England, 13.
Germany, 5–16, 17–31, 32–42; attitude in war, 196; error, 283.
Gilman, Charlotte Perkins, 124.
Girardet, Gustave S., 'On Tales of Adventure,' 388.
Gorky, Maxim, 53, 320.
Government ownership, 269.
"G. P." See "Pelham, George."
Great Britain, 279.
Guicciardini on Neutrality, 429.
Gurney, Edmund, 182, 188, 189.

Halifax, Marquis of, 161.
Hamlet and Horatio, 162.
Hanna, Thos. C., 192–193.
Hart, A. B., 196.
Harvard University, Pan-Germanism, 196.
Hauptmann, Gerhart, 312–327.
Heroes, 436.
Hillquitt, Morris, 253.
Hilprecht, H. V., 184.
Hobson, R. P., 356.
Hodgson, Richard, 415, 418.
Holt, Henry, 413.
Holt, Henry, 'Candy, Whisky, Science, Philosophy, etc.,' 434; 'Christian Science,' 215; 'The Culmination of Competition,' 281; 'The Cult of St. Vitus,' 88; 'Lord Roberts,' 210; 'The Mobilization of the Debutantes,' 298; 'More Sentimental Criticism,' 426; 'The Overbearing Piano,' 430; 'Psychical Research,' 213; 'Quem Deus,' 209; 'Simplified Spelling,' 220, 442; 'Some Fads in Writing,' 438; 'Some Human Documents,' 203; 'Special to our Readers,' 202; 'The Sportsman,' 218.
Hourwich, Dr., 359, 361.
Howe, Mrs. J. Frederick, 124.
Hugo, Victor, 54
Human Documents, Some, 203.
Humanitarianism, 8–15.
Hypnoidization, 178.

Ibsen, 55, 314.
Identity, personal, 189.
Immigration, 358.
Imperator group, 413, 417, 425.
Insanity, 318.
Investigator, The Professional, 435.
Italy, 197.

James, William, 194, 214, 419.
Janet, Pierre, 176, 182, 188, 192.
Japan, 28.
Job, What is the Chance for a? 134—the army of the unemployed dealt with in the concrete, 134—hiring unskilled labor in good times, 135–136—attitude of the unemployed today toward common labor as shown by an actual list of men shoveling coal in ten days, 136–137—attitude toward higher class of employment, 137–139—real distress; stories of hard-luck applicants, 139–141—the skilled mechanic out of a job, 141—behavior and treatment after work is obtained, 141–143—amount of wages, 143–144—wage rates, 144—stockholders and dividends, 145—country full of jobs, 145—permanent force; foremen and assistants, 146–147—summary of relation of employers to unemployment, 147—conclusion; the unemployed are unemployable, 148.

Johnson, A. S., 'The Expansionist Fallacy,' 17; 'The Fool and his Money,' 341.
Johnson, Mrs. Rossiter, 127.
Junior League, 305.

K., Mr., 190.
Kaiser, 204, 208, 209.
Kenton, Edna, 122, 124, 128, 131.
Key, Ellen, 131.
Kishinev, 251.
Kneisels, 431.
Kultur, 282, 287.
Kulturvolk, 196.

Labor. See Unemployment.
Law. See Property and Law.
Lawn tennis cheering, 216.
Leaders, 161.
Lemberg, 248.
Leonard Wood Camps, 236.
Letters, dating, 439.
"Lies, Damned Lies, and Statistics," 352—careless and dishonest methods of some reformers, 352–353—abuse of statistics, 353—expert knowledge; common sense, 354—instances of absurd and meaningless use of figures, 354–366—deaths from cancer, 355—infant mortality, 356—Mr. Hobson and alcohol, 356–358—immigration, labor, and wages; Peter Roberts; Dr. Hourwich, 358–361—child labor fallacy, 361—misleading figures on social problems, prostitution, etc.; Damaged Goods; Ralph Wardlaw; C. E. Woodruff, 362–366.
Lodge, Sir Oliver, 397, 403, 406–408.
Lombroso, Cesare, 187.
Love and marriage, 131.
"Lucas Malet," 122.

Maeterlinck, 313, 314, 320, 410, 412.
"Malet, Lucas," 122.
Manchester Guardian quoted, 212.
Manchuria, 28.
Marriage. See Feminism.
Mason, Alfred Bishop, 'The Cause of Revolution in Mexico,' 379.
Mathematics, 396.
Mather, F. J., Jr., 'Ethnic Darwinism: a New-Old Fallacy,' 196; 'The National Defence,' 223; 'Nietzsche in Action,' 32; 'Standardized Applause,' 216.
Mexico, The Cause of Revolution in, 379—personal reminiscences, 379—government of Porfirio Diaz, 379–381—despotism and murder, 380—elections a farce, 381—no middle class; public opinion; lords of land and life; labor, 381–383—Spaniard and Anglo-Saxon, 383—American vulgarity in Mexico, 383—religion; high wedding fees, 384—old gods and new, 384–385—the land question fundamental, 385–387—watching and waiting; French rule, 386—single tax and poverty, 387.
Militarism, 204, 237.
Minnesota's management of prisoners, 332–340.
Mobs, 43.
Modernity, 123.
Money, saving and spending, 341–351.
Moody, Helen Watterson, 120.
Moral law, 288.
More, Louis T., 'Skepticism and Idolatry in Science,' 393.
More, Paul Elmer, 'The Philosophy of the War,' 1; 'Property and Law,' 253.
Morris, Wm., 129.
Mosso, Angelo, 179.
Münsterberg, Hugo, 37, 196.
Myers, F. W. H., 181, 182, 183, 186, 187, 188, 194.

Nation, The, 356.
Neutrality, 429.
New Mechanics, 401, 405.
New York Evening Post, 223, 355.
New York Times, 355, 356, 360, 365.
Newbold, W. R., 184.
Newbold, W. R., 'Visions a Source of Philosophy,' 410.
Nietzsche, 4–11, 283, 288, 290.
Nietzsche in Action, 32—significant moments in Prussian history, 32–33—the Prussian conscience, 33—Nietzsche's fundamental notion of the Superman and the Will to Power, 34–35—duty to hate and deceive, 35—Blonde Beasts, D'Annunzio, 36—the German Empire as personified Superman, 37—Treitschke, Bernhardi, and Münsterberg, 37—the German army; Bismarck, 38—German nationalism, 39—defect of Nietzscheism, 39—world rule or downfall, 40–41—modern reason and German madness, 41–42.

Noyes, Alfred, extract from his poem The Search Lights, 16.

Pan-Germanism, 196.
Parkinson, Wm. D., 'The Nation's Adventures in Education,' 149.
Parole, 331.
"Pelham, George," 414, 417, 421–423.
People. See Mobs.
Philippines, 21.
Philosophy of Literature, Some Recent, 312—the charm of darkness, 312–313—rise of a school of writers that explore misty corners of personality, 314—Gerhart Hauptmann and the hidden world, 315—his lovely characters and their lesson, 315–317—his error, 317—trend of Greek art, 318—lack of sanity in Hauptmann's characters, 319—lack of significance in the abnormal, 320—classes of characters, 321—proper field for art, 322—value of emotion, 322–323—Hauptmann's misconception of the tragic, 323–324—moral responsibility, 325—life in accord with nature, 326—human reason and its place, 327.
Phinuit, 417, 421–423.
Piano, The Overbearing, 430.
Piper records, published and unpublished, 410–425.
Podmore, Frank, 180, 182.
Poincarê, H., 397–406, 409.
Poland, 238.
Powers, Fred Perry, "Feminism and Socialism," 118.
Preparedness. See Defence.
Prince, Morton, 195.
Prisoners and prison reform, 328.
Progressive, What is? 159—Lieyès and his science of sound politics, 159—the Civil War and the French Revolution, 160—type of leaders needed in times of disturbance, 161—sense of balance; Cromwell; Hamlet and Horatio, 162—how law and custom grow, 163—speed of change; definition of civilization, 164—habits, 165—conservatism and conservation, 165—the conservative and progressive issue, 166–167—"try but hold fast" the method of nature and life, 167–168—Jove and Prometheus, 168—Milton's Jehovah and Satan, 169—secret of best governing, 169—real progress, 169–170—commercial democracy, 170—present doctrine of progress, 170–171—public opinion and public will, 170—difficulty of conceiving numbers a chief problem in democracy, 171, 172—cant and current phrases like "government of the people," 172–173—absolute democracy impossible, 173—troubles inherent in multitude, 173–174—amending constitutions; meeting the difficulty of numbers, 174—warning signals; truly democratic government, 174–175.
Property and Law, 253—Colorado troubles, 253–254—uncertainty in the public mind as to property rights, 254—Rousseau's doctrine—civilization and injustice, 255–257—Rousseau's real service, 257–258—two false assumptions in Socialism, 258—folly to ignore men's initial inequality; importance of property rights, 259–260—human laws but the interpretation of nature, 260—the jus naturale, 261–263—legislation and the obligations of labor, 263–264—liberty bound up with irregularity, 264—necessity of recognizing facts; Mexico and the South, 264–265—humanitarianism and property rights, 266—false sentiment about debtors, 266–267—private ownership of property, 267–268—the Church and the University; what the security of property guarantees, 268.
Prostitution, 362–366.
Prussia, 278.
Przemysl, 248.
Psychical Research, criticism of THE UNPOPULAR REVIEW for articles, 213.
Psychical Research, Our Debt to, 176—submerged memories aroused by fright, grief, or worry, 176–177—the case of Mr. C., 177–178—Dr. Boris Sides's method of hypnoidization applied, 178—error of frightening and shocking children, 179—suggestibility of childhood, 180—criminality the result of adverse early environment, 181—F. W. H. Myers and his work, 181—Prof. Henry Sidgwick; Gurney; Podmore; Janet, 182—subconscious enhancement of man's powers, 183–184—L. Agassiz' dream, 184—Prof. H. V. Hilprecht's dream of the Babylonian agate fragments, 184–186—subconscious mentation of poets, musicians and others, 186–187—Lombroso's view of genius and Myers'; genius may be cultivated, 187–188—Myers' greatest achievement, 188—Gurney and Janet's experiments affecting ideas of human personality, 188–189—personal identity, 189—secondary self; Mr. K.'s loss of identity, 190—the latent "something" persisting in phenomena of dissociation, 191–193—Myers' "subliminal self," 193–194—summary of our indebtedness to psychical research; university lectures, 195.

Psychical Research, Society for, 412, 413, 420.
Public opinion. See Mobs.
Punctuation, 439.

Quem Deus, 209.

Race purity, 199.
Reeves, W. P., "Fear Boys with Bugs," 440.
Ribot, Theodule, 191.
Roberts, Lord, 210.
Roberts, Peter, 358.
Rockefeller, J. D., Jr., 253, 254.
Rousseau, J. J., 255, 257.

Salesmanship, 341.
Scholar and gentleman, 117.
Schreiner, Olive, 124.
Science, Scepticism and Idolatry in, 393—encroachment of science on metaphysics, 393—consequent urgent need of just criticism, 394–395—methods are important, 395–396—pure mathematics; influence of hypothesis in the abstract sciences, 396—two books (of H. Poincaré and Sir Oliver Lodge) which record the value and need of scientific hypothesis, 397—Poincaré ideas on experiment, generalization, and hypothesis, 397–398—his confusion of thought and reversion of opinion, 399–400—the New Mechanics and two views of ether, 401—Poincaré's further classification; laws and hypothesis, 402—Sir J. J. Thomson and ions, 403—explaining the known by the unknown, 403–404—"holes in the ether"; absence of clear ideas; messy thinking, 405–406—Sir Oliver Lodge, his belief in the Ether, and his proof of immortality, 407–408—his play upon words; scientific dogmatism; graven images of science, 408–409.
Scribner, Charles, 291.
Scudder, Vida D., 121, 127, 129, 130.
Seawell, Molly Elliot, 125.
Shakspere's mob scenes, 47.
Showerman, Grant, 'The Professional Investigator,' 435.
Sidgwick, Henry, 182.
Sidies, Boris, 177, 178, 179.
Simplified Spelling (institutions using), 220, 442.
Single tax for Mexico, 387.
Slaughter, M. S., 'The Passing of the Educated Man,' 76.
Slavs, 196.
Slosson, Preston William, 'The Conservation of Competition,' 269.
Smith, Katherine Dallett, 127.
Smith, Samuel G., 'The New View of the Criminal,' 328.
Socialism, 118, 258, 270.
Society, college professors and, 102; debutantes and, 298.
Special to our Readers, 202.
Spencer, Anna Garlin, 124.
Spiritualistic philosophy, 411.
Sportsman, The, 218.
Statistics, 352–356.
Stevenson, 389, 390, 392.
Sugar, 434.
Sumner, Helen L., 125.
Superman, 34–38.
Swiss army system, 235.
System versus Slippers, 367—efficiency and total depravity, 367—plan and system, 368—rubber stamps, pigeon-holes, files, indexes, etc., 369–370—comments of the efficient friend, 370–371—carrying system into everything, 372–373—a game of cards and a walk in the country, 374–375—system in recreation; enthusiasm by rule, 376—work itself a recreation, 377—a plea for moderation and free play of personality, 378.

Tales of Adventure, On, 388—yearnings for wickedness; the moral man a plunderer at heart, 388—pirates and raiding Indians no longer a terror, 389—the villain's end; the devastating influence of woman, 389–390—good tales few, but romance is not dead, 390—modern material, 391–392.
Tarde, Gabriel, 58.

Taylor, Henry Osborn, 'Guicciardini on Neutrality,' 429.
Thomson, Sir J. J., 403.
Thrift, 341–351.
Tragedy, 324.
Treitschke, 5, 9, 37, 283, 288, 290.
Trench fighters, 296.
Tupper, Frederick, 'Parables of the Dramatic Mob,' 43.

Unemployment, 134.
Unitarian Advance quoted, 426.
UNPOPULAR REVIEW, criticised as gentleman's magazine, 426; criticisms answered, 211; progress, 202; psychical research articles criticised, 213.

Van Norman, Louis E., 'The Eastern Moat of Europe,' 238.
Visions a Source of Philosophy, 410—evidence of survival after death from the published Piper records, 410—a spiritualistic philosophy; whence are the facts for its construction, 411–412—unpublished Piper records have much to give, 412–413—a dilemma, 413—Mr. Holt's Cosmic Relations, 413—present results, 414—the dilemma analyzed, 414–415—difficulties of communication; illustration of persistent effort to overcome them; "George Eliot" describes to Hodgson her entrance into the world of spirit, 415–416—limits of knowledge, 416—other criteria for judging statements, such as inherent consistency; details of the spirit world from Phinuit, "G. P.," and "Imperator" group, 416–418—further criterion of agreement of communicators' statements with verifiable facts, 418—the Piper revelations are not isolated; visions are the basis of all religions, 419–420—agreements under different names, 420—illustrations from the unpublished Piper records, 421–425—existence of God; "G. P.," 421—bodily form and clothing, 421–422—the brightness of the spirit, 422—spirit and thought distinguished; measuring lapse of time; space in the spirit world, 423—objects existing there and their nature; Rembrandt and his pictures, 424–425—a chief source of happiness, 425.
Vistula-Dniester river system, 238.
Vocational education, 152.

War, The Philosophy of the, 1—frequency of wars in recent times, 1–2—American bewilderment at the present war, 2–4—Alt, 4—German preachers of Might, 5—Cramb and the philosophy of Might, 6–7—Napoleonism, 6–7—the opposing preaching of humanitarianism, 8—falsehood involved in these extremes, 9—evil effects; shams, 9—essence of Nietzscheism, 9–10—the righteous element in war, 10—result of having lived in these extremes, 11—the fighting instinct still strong, 12—folly of extreme sympathy, 12–13—false humanitarianism and national rancor, 13–14—escape from the dilemma; just thinking, 14–15—Alfred Noyes; his Search Lights, 16.
War in Europe, controversial correspondence of editor of REVIEW, 203; expansion as a cause, 18. See also Ethnic Darwinism.
Wardlaw, Ralph, 363, 364.
Warsaw, 245.
Warwick, Countess of, 122, 130.
Weltgeist, 204.
Williams, Tyrrell, quoted, 266.
Wilson, President, 226, 235.
Wimodausis, 123.
Wollstoncroft, Mary, 124.
Woman suffrage. See Feminism.
Woodruff, Chas. E., 364.
Wotherspoon, Gen. W. W., 223, 230, 233.
Writing, Some Fads in, 438.